Preparations for the Great Eastern at Portland.
OUR PORTLAND CORRESPONDENCE.

The city authorities, who had begun to droop and despond under the long delay and contradictory statements in regard to the proposed visit of the Great Eastern, have become again hopeful, confident and active. The programme of reception has been revised, amended and improved, and all things are once more ready to welcome the ship and the great crowds of people who are expected to come here to see her. The arrangements at the pier have been completed for some time, and are the best that could be made to secure safety and facility to those who zens have contributed liberally to carry the matter through with solat. There are to be balls, and fetes, and bardly imagine the change which has come over the place within the past few days. Since the announcement of the accident to the steamer, and the consequent doubt as to her being able to make the promised trip, the Portland accident to the steamer, and the consequent doubt as to her being able to make the promised trip, the Portland people have seemed to move as those without hope. They had placed great dependence upon the successful entre of the mammoth steamer into their harbor, and made great calculations, business-wise, upon that event. To have their hopes thus cast down and their speculations defeated was hard to bear, and there was depression perceptible everywhere in the social circle and in the business mart. But under the assurances from a source calculated to remove all doubts, a spirit of activity has spring up which promises to lead to the most satisfactory results.

The people here regard the Great Eastern and her mission as closely allied with their welfare and the rapid advancement of their city in a commercial point of view, and hence it is not strange that they should feel so deeply the disappointments and the subsequent proportionate elation which I have alluded to. I hope they will not be subjected to further taxation upon their hopes.

I find Portland a sung little city, quiet and Bostonianish in its management, in the tastes of the people, in the style of doing business, and in appearance generally. The impression is naturally forced upon a stranger that Boston influence enters largely into everything here and hereabout, and that Fortland is but literally, although so far removed, a suburb of Boston, and I am constrained to believe that Boston interests expect to be largely benefitted by making Portland the southern port of Canada, a feature which forms a very strong point in the programme of the Great Eastern experiment, and to which I may again allude at a suitable time. The city is favorably located, and I think the importance of its position for a principal scaport city is but little understood by the

a feature which forms a very strong point in the programme of the Great Eastern experiment, and to which I may again allude at a suitable time. The city is favorably located, and I think the importance of its position for a principal scaport city is but little understood by the public South and West. Last year the place contained some 28,000 inhabitants, with a property valuation of $22,240,230. The shipping reaches some 145,242 tons, and the banking capital is $2,075,000. It has twenty-four churches and sixteen schoolhouses. The city is located nearly upon an island, and lies in part upon the bay, partly upon Portland harbor, and partly upon the river Tone, which skirts its southern and castern sides, and is navigable almost the entire front of the populous part of the city. The harbor is, without question, one of the best on the scaboard. It is the only harbor north of Boston, and south of the Thousand Islands which is of any magnitude. In the winter season. Portland is the only outlet easy of access for the Canadi ravie, and when we consider the length and rigor of the Canadian winters, the importance of this harbor to that portion of the British possessions may be easily estimated. The Grand Trunk Railroad of Canada, which is rapidly becoming a competing route to the great West, has a perpetual lease of the St. Lawrence and Atlante Railroad, and by this channel is enabled to reach the seaboard at all seasons of the year. Already the efforts of the Grand Trunk Railroad are beginning to be felt in bringing trade to this place. But a few days ago a train of freight cars, loaded with flour, and nearly a haif a mile in length, reached here. Much of the flour came directly from St. Louis and Milwankee, by way of the Grand Trunk Railroad, at a cost of sixty-five cents per barrel. The owners of the Great Eastern are also largely interested in the great railroad of Canada, and the selection of Portland as a deput for the great steam-ship experiment; that time must unfold; it is merely my province to give you the cur

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSET TO THE GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK.

The following letter addressed by Gov. Newell to the Governor of the State of New York, we have been allowed to publish. It is of interest to every citizen of New Jersey who feels a proper regard for the interests and honor of the State. The New York suthorities appear to have misunderricod the meaning of the Governor's proclamation, and have continued to deposit mud, &c., on the lands under water belonging to this State. After the following letter from Gov. Newell, there can be no further room for doubt either as to the intentions or rights of New Jersey:—

York." As your Excellency appears to have misapprehended the precise intent of that proclamation, beg to be allowed to present you with the following copy thereof, and to make to you a few words of explanation.

Whereas, information hab been communicated to me that the rights of the people of New Jersey in and to the shad, oyater and other fasheries in the waters lying "west of the middle of the bay of New Yors, and west of the middle of the hudson river which lies between Manhattan Island and New Jersey," as well as their right to navigate the same, is being acricularly impaired by the habitual and constant deposit, and which if persisted in, must ultimately be deatructive to the privileges now enjoyed by our citizens to fish and to mavigate therein, and injurious to the health of those of them contiguous thereto; and whereas, the deposit of this matter is an unauthorized violation of the sovereign rights of the State of New Jersey, and is detrimental to the interests of the riparian proprietors. Now, therefore, I, William A. Newell. Governor of the State of New Jersey, do Issue this, my proclamation, warning and commanding all persons whatever forthwith to desist from making any further deposit upon the land, the property of this State, under the aforesaid waters.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State of New Jersey, this first day of Outober epitheen hundred and fifty nine.

By the Governor, Thomas S. Allinon, Secretary of State.

Your Excellency states in your communication to the Altorney General of New York that the Governor of New Jersey has "warned and commanded all persons whatever to desist from making any further deposit upon said island"—referring to Oyster Island—wand claimed the name to be the property of New Jersey, "and the Altorney General in his reply gives it as his opinion that Oyster Island and Bedice's Island are clearly within the jurisdiction of the State of New York, and the Altorney General in his reply gives it as his opinion that Oyster Island and Bedice's Island, and t hold to a rigid accountancy as present and damage shall continue thus to invade her severeignty and damage the fisheries of her citizens, by making deposits upon the land under the waters "lying west of the middle of the Eay of New York, and west of the middle of that part of the Hudson river which lies between Manhattan Island and New Jersey" wherever that line—understand New Jersey—may happen to fall.

I trust that your Excellency will pardon me for thus calling your attention to this subject. I have felt constrained to do so by the apparent missapprehension into which your Excellency and the Attorney General of New York bave fallen, in relation to my procla mation.

Allow me to express the hope that the States of New York and New Jersey may always maintain towards each other that spirit of metual forbearance, respect and strict justice which should ever characterise sovereign sister other that spirit of metual forbearance, respect and strict justice which should ever characterise sovereign sister States.

With sentiments of the most profound official and personal respect for your Excellency, and assurances of a sincere desire to cultivate relations of honorable peace and friendship with the good people of New York and their excellent Chief Magistrate.

A great crowd of spectators was gathered on the bath houses and mill dam. The six consistants appeared promptly, and conducted their frail shells to the starting place, amid the cheers of the crowd. Mr. Ward, of Newburg, seemed to be the favorite, although Hancon, of Newburg, and Doyle and Whitman, of Boston, had ardent friends. York, and Wells, of Boston, were considered good for asi places.

At the word the six took a good start, Doyle slightly ahead. For half a mile Doyle held the first place, Ward and Whitman being about two lengths behind; Hancon and Paw five or six lengths behind, and Wells far in the rear. Presently Ward drew away from Whitman, but Doyle still maintained his lead. At the upper stake Doyle approached on the wrong side, and was going round, when the judges shouted to him to turn on the other side. He was obliged to "back water" in order to do this, and lost several seconds. On the return, Ward having secured the lead, kept it, although hard pushed by Doyle, and won by about two lengths. Whitman fell to the fifth place, and the third was contested for by Daw and Hancon, the former finally conquering. The weather was excellent, and the water smooth. Aside from Doyle's unfortunate mistake, everything went off to the satisfaction of all. Whether Doyle would have been first but for this mishap is a doubtful problem.

O COUNTRY MERCHANTS.

UDOLPHO WOLFE'S

PURE COGNAC BRANDY IN BOTTLES.

FURE JAMAIUA RUM.

HISH AND SOOTHW WHISHEY.

PORT, MADEIRA AND SHERRY WINES

I am now at the brand with pure Cognac Brandson Rum.

I am now at the brandson of the brandson Rum.

Port Wines, in bottles for medical and predesters. By remore success that has crowned my efforts to place a within the reach of all, under the name of Aromatic Schnapps, and to drive out of the market the perny pounds sold as gin throughout the country, led may druggists, apotheoaries and medical men, for some to solicil me to pursue the same course in regard it to solicil me to pursue the same course in regard it to solicil me to pursue the same course in regard it.

pounds some against and medical men, for some years to solicit me to pursue the same course in regard to the ar of brandy. I should have compiled with these requests all quarters long ago, but was deterred from it by the fact owing to the exorbitant prices of brandy in France, consequence of the grape crop for some years, it was no chance of my being able to import the choicest branch was no chance of my being able to import the choicest brands and the control of the tied by me as the pure, uradulterated arteie, and it will be found, when need as a medicine, a beverage besithful and a vigorating. It has been a matter of universal complaint that a bottle of pure, unmixed French brandy was very difficult to obtain, and the purchaser, nine times in ten, was deceived with a vile manufactured imitation. Of all descriptions of arciest spirits brandy, from its high price, has been the one article that mixers and sellers have turned their sitention to, and millions of gallens of the so called French brandy have been sentirered annually through the land, and have been the primary cause of murders, suicides, cruelties and orimes, and have sent theremens, mania a potu and borrors—names unknown until unprincipled men began to make maddening compounds and sell it as the pure French brandy.

The virtues of pure French brandy need not be told by me. They are known throughout the world as a medicine or a mild atimulant. It is, as the French nation poetically name it, "East de is vie"—the water of life. But this applies to it only when pure and unadultersack. Manufactured with the fearful ingredients that make a good imitation, it becomes a death drink to innocent tens of thous and of our race. To remedy a fearful evil, I have commenced importing Brandy, bottling it and sell-ing it as "Wolfe's genuine Copnas Brandy," I am daily receiving orders from the druggists and apothecaries in all parts of the Union to sell it for medical purposes.
